Its long driveway leads you down this battle-axe shaped block that opens up in front of your eyes to provide a hidden oasis, with mature gardens, established trees and its large home of some 25sq. The property then backs on to further open space provided by the river reserve.

Being set well away from the street this property offers immense peace and quiet in a private setting, where you can potter around the yard, relax with family and friends on the undercover decking or have the kids run free across the flat acre of land that is getting harder to find by the day.
